

What does it take to win when the pressure is high, the stakes are real, and the environment won't stop changing?

Our next speaker knows the answer—because he's lived it.

After decades leading elite F-15 and F-22 fighter squadrons as a Fighter Weapons School Instructor and Squadron Commander, Cujo learned that winning isn't about rank or talent alone—it's about disciplined execution, trust, and accountability when it matters most.

When he entered the business world, Cujo saw leaders facing just as much disruption—but without the tools to lead through it. That sparked a new mission: helping organizations build leaders who can perform under pressure and turn accountability into a competitive advantage.

He's the author of three bestselling books and leads a world-class team of former fighter pilots and Navy SEALs who have together helped hundreds of organizations learn to achieve real teamwork.

Today, Cujo will show us how elite teams “Debrief to Win!”

Please join me in welcoming Cujo to our stage!